Victims From Omaha

AUTO SKIDDED 173 FEET

OMAHA (AP) — Three persons were killed early Sunday when the car in which they were riding crashed into the center span of the Ak-Sar-Ben Bridge, linking Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Omaha.

Police identified the victims as John Belich, 30, his 26-year-old wife, Stephanie, and George W. Richards, 21, all of Omaha.

Officers said the Belich car attempted to pass a car driven by Leo J. Gillogly, 42, and the Belich car sideswiped the other car, careening into the center span of the bridge.

All three victims were dead on arrival at an Omaha hospital.

Police said the Belich car left 173 feet of skid marks before striking the bridge.

Crash Kills One North Of Pender

LINCOLN Star Special
PINDER, Neb.—A one-car crash late Sunday night one-half mile north of Pender killed Wesley Kollie, 22, of Bancroft, the State Highway Patrol reported.

Kollie was driving east on Highway 16 and missed the curve at the junction of Highway 16 and Highway 9, lost control of the car and it rolled over, the Patrol said.

Accident Fatal To Omaha Woman

OMAHA (AP)—Mrs. Martha Traynowicz, 57, of Omaha, died at Douglas County Hospital Sunday of injuries suffered earlier in a two-car crash on Highway 75, about 5 blocks south of the Omaha city limits.

State Patrolman Stewart Halpin said the Traynowicz car was hit broadside as it pulled onto the highway.

Mrs. Traynowicz's husband, Matthew C. 57, who was driving, and the driver of the other car, Jimmy L. Yeck, 20, Omaha, suffered only minor cuts.

Omahan Killed In Iowa Auto Crash

ATLANTIC, Iowa (AP)—Richard Lee Jensen, 22, of Omaha was killed early Sunday in an auto accident on Highway 71, about 5 miles south of here.

Authorities expressed belief Jensen went to sleep at the wheel of his car. He was alone at the time. Jensen recently was released from the armed services and had been working at an Omaha store prior to entering the University of Omaha.

Nixon Reviving 'Chicken In Every Pot'—Estes

EPHRATA, Wash. (INS)—Sen. Estes Kefauver said Sunday that Vice President Richard M. Nixon is reviving the "chicken in every pot" theme on which Herbert Hoover ran 28 years ago.

Nixon's Democratic campaign rival said:

"The parallel, I believe, will frighten a good many Americans." Kefauver made the comment after telling reporters that Nixon was quoted Saturday night as saying that the GOP hopes to "double everyone's standard of living within the next 10 years."

The Senator held a news conference at Longview, Wash., prior to winding up a three-day tour of the Pacific Northwest by addressing a dinner rally at Ephrata, Wash.

We Could Promise . . .

Pointing to Nixon's statement that "we could promise two automobiles, three television sets, a better house and a dozen other comforts" in the next decade, Kefauver told newsmen:

"These two automobiles and three television sets sound like a modern day version of Herbert Hoover's promise of 28 years ago—two cars in every garage and a chicken in every pot."

"I don't think Mr. Nixon and the present administration are any more capable of delivering than Mr. Hoover was."

4 Years at Harvard

As for Nixon's statement of hope for a four-day week for Americans eventually, Kefauver said this reminded him of a move in which a candidate for the Senate "promised every man, woman and child a full four-year college education at Harvard."

One newsmen asked Kefauver why he would consider Nixon "any worse" than President Eisenhower.

Kefauver replied:

'Smear and Innuendo'

"I think the American people know about Nixon. I don't think the American people appreciate the campaign of smear and innuendo that Mr. Nixon has conducted in past elections."

"I don't think his is the kind of leadership the people of the country would like to have."

Kefauver's comments marked his fifth straight day of personal attack on Nixon.

The Senator drove to Longview from Vancouver, where he attended Baptist church services the morning. A 12-car motorcade carried the senator and his party along a scenic 35-mile route following the Columbia River.

500 Here For Rural Electric Region Meet

Some 500 representatives were gathered in Lincoln Sunday for a regional conference of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA) which opened at the Cornhusker Hotel Sunday evening. The meeting will last through Tuesday noon.

The NRECA has 107 cooperatives in the four-state region of Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado and Wyoming serving 270,000 farms and rural establishments.

The Sunday night session opened with a management workshop featuring a panel discussion on the problems of maintaining qualified personnel. Moderated by Donald Dunham of the NRECA staff, panelists were Peter Thomassen of Creighton, Neb.; Marion M. Wilson of Fort Morgan, Colo.; Park Hatch of Horton, Kan., and George Zenor of Riverton, Wyo.

Monday morning's session will feature an address by NRECA General Manager Clyde T. Ellis of Washington.

Highlighting the Monday afternoon session is an address by REA Administrator David A. Hamill, former Nebraska recently appointed chief of the agency.

Governor Victor Anderson will greet the representatives at the Monday night banquet where Dr. C. Vin White, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will give the principal address.

Speakers At Dedication

400 Attend Dedication Of Millard Lefler Junior High

Former Lincoln Superintendent of Schools Millard Lefler told more than 400 persons attending dedication ceremonies for Millard Lefler Junior High School Sunday that he couldn't think of any place a person could be more proud to have his name associated with than a school.

Lefler served as superintendent from 1920 to 1948—more than three times longer than any other person who has held the position. Lefler said the "genius of America" is in recognizing the needs of oncoming school children.

The present superintendent, Dr. Steven N. Watkins, praised Lefler's foresight in school planning and said he was instrumental in bringing junior high schools into Nebraska's educational systems. The 12-acre site for the school, located at 48th and Valley Rd., was purchased in 1925 for $12,000.

The building was put into use in September, 1955, while still under construction. It now has an enrollment of 578 students, Mrs. Kathryn Hurst, principal, said. Present capacity is 600, she added, but bids will be received Oct. 11 for an addition to the present plant.

Warren H. Parker, board of education president, said in presentation of the building that it stands as a symbol of the expansion of school physical facilities made possible by the people of Lincoln in the last five years.

Selmer A. Solheim president of the school's PTA, and Ann Bartholomew, student council representative, gave acceptance speeches.

Millard Lefler's girls' octette, the girls' glee and flute soloist Bill Carlson presented musical numbers. Leo Hill, president of the Lincoln Kiwanis Club, presented the school with a framed photograph of Lefler. The Rev. J. Dallas Gibson gave the invocation and the Rev. Forrest M. Stith the benediction.

Preference Clause Brings Conflict

Davis (former Lincoln attorney who is now undersecretary of the interior) and Aandahl (former North Dakota governor who is now assistant secretary of the interior) "are great enemies of the REA."

Ellis further stated, "It's in this clear up to his eyes. We've been to see him, talked to him—he's absolutely impossible so far as federal power projects are concerned."

It is Ellis' contention that the present administration is in the "process of turning over all federal power to private power companies." He said that as the rural electric program is weakened one effect is "to entrench more firmly private power monopolies and another is the raising of power rates."

"It weakens us," Ellis continued, "because we're the only little companies against them but we're not going to sell out."

Defending the Eisenhower Administration, Hamill declared, "There have been inferences made at the national level that this administration has made efforts to sabotage the REA and that's about as far from the truth as it's possible to get."

The REA administrator said that every feasible loan for rural electric projects is being met promptly and equitably.

"We're not running a welfare association but we're running the REA on a good business-like basis," he said.

Citing the figures on loans made to REA projects, Hamill said that in 1952 REA loans totaled $165,000,000 and in 1956 they totaled $190,000,000 with the same figure estimated for the current fiscal year.

Hamill said there was a jam-up of loan applications totaling $113,000,000 in 1952 and the backlog now is $46,000,000.

"There's been no sabotage whatsoever," Hamill declared, "and if they were looking for someone to sabotage it, they wouldn't have called me to take the job of administrator."

Hamill, a graduate of Hastings College, and former Colorado legislator, has served as an REA director in Colorado. He was appointed as head of the REA in June of this year.

SOME BULL

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—The bull placidly ambled onto highway 36 near Stewartsville, Mo.

Then, according to state troopers it was struck twice—once by a car driven by Olin Robinson, 37, Stewartsville and again by Mary Searcy, 55, Clarksdale, Mo., who was following closely behind.

The two drivers pulled the animal off the highway.

While waiting for two trucks to bring in their heavily damaged cars they looked again at the bull. He was standing at the roadside happily munching grass.

NEED MORE THOUGHT TO AGED—ADLAI

DENVER (AP)—Adlai Stevenson issued the first of his "New America" policy statements Sunday. It called on Americans to "Make our dollars the tools of our hearts" and improve the health, happiness, income and usefulness of 15 million elder citizens.

The Democratic nominee put out his 3,300-word program outline on a busy Sunday which included churchgoing, an airport conference with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and posing for photographs with Democratic office-seekers in this Rocky Mountain region.

Stevenson's schedule gets busier Monday. He's off for Tulsa, Oklahoma City and points south for more speeches and handshaking on the second leg of an 11-state tour which will cover some 7,000 miles.

First Of Half Dozen

Sunday's policy statement on "The Program For Our Older Citizens" was the first of a half-dozen or so which the candidate plans for outlining Democratic positions to party leaders throughout the country.

In a letter to Democratic senators, governors and other officials and candidates Stevenson said these statements would enable him to talk about "topics of great concern" which "do not lend themselves to full development in speeches."

He voiced hope that these statements, which his aides have called a "new dimension" in political campaigning, "will be a new contribution to talking sense to the American people."

Nation Has 'Failed'

In the first of the "New America" statements, as Stevenson himself refers to them, the nominee said the nation as a whole—and the Republican administration in particular—has failed to meet its obligations to the 15 million Americans 65 or over.

His main recommendation: quick action by Congress to get up a Democratic-proposed Office of Older Persons' Welfare in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Stevenson said that when President Eisenhower recently announced "with much fanfare" the establishment of a federal council to review problems of the aging, "I couldn't help thinking how consistently the corporations have gotten action from this administration, while the people have got conferences, councils, commissions and confabs."

Club Founder Nefsky Honored

D. David Nefsky of 2838 Sheridan, founding president of the South Street Temple Men's Club, was honored at a testimonial dinner Sunday night.

A plaque given "in recognition of his outstanding leadership in the cause of brotherhood, and his inspired service to South Street Temple" officially elected him a "lifetime honorary president of the Brotherhood of Congregation B'nai Jeshurun." The plaque was presented by Kurt Kaufman, local brotherhood president.

Nefsky has been active in the Midwest Council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, serving as president and board member of the six-state federation. He has also served on the board of directors of the South Street Temple.

Mr. Leo Wertgame of Kansas City, president of the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods, paid tribute to Nefsky for his community spirit and his contribution to the Jewish Reform Movement.

The invocation was given by Rabbi Jay Marcus of Topeka, Kan., and Rabbi Wolfgang Hamburger of the South Street Temple, gave the benediction. Julian Lyons was toastmaster.

Jacob Spadt, 74, Found Dead Here

Jacob Spadt, 74, was found dead in his room at 144 No. 10th, Sunday afternoon.

Acting coroner, Deputy Sheriff Del Ziemann, said the man died of natural causes.

Officers Question 3 Men Concerning Assault, Robbery

The sheriff's office Sunday continued questioning three men, 23, 27 and 23, in connection with the alleged attempted rape and battery of a 40-year-old housekeeper and theft of $11 and a pistol from an 88-year-old man at his home here.

Two of the men, the sheriff's office said, are on parole from the State Reformatory. All three were jailed for investigation early Saturday morning, one at the city jail and the other two at the county jail.

The housekeeper suffered black eyes during the assault, she told the sheriff's office.

The Milling Aggies met at the home of Dick Gould. Members prepared applications for dairy awards.

The Cedar Mill Cookies club met at the home of Janet Adams. This was the club's Achievement Day and the members brought their mothers as guests. Mrs. Morris Hammer and the members gave a demonstration on "Good Eating on the Road to Good Health".

The members also demonstrated making sandwiches and entertained their mothers with games and piano solos. The club members ended the club year with a weiner roast. Members turned in their completed project books and talked about plans and projects for next year.

The 4-H Pals and their mothers gathered for Achievement Night recently. The girls displayed their kitchen sets. Members turned in their completed record books. Five members participated in demonstrations at the State Fair. They were Audrey Kahler, Joan Walters, Snickerdoodle, Wallis Lundeen, Joann Kerns, potatoholders; and Marilyn Fox and Wallis Lundeen, peanut butter cookies.

The Town and Country 4-H club met at the home of Orest Erskine. The club planned a swimming party. Beverly Ronhovde demonstrated what to do in case of fainting. Ronnie Ronhovde demonstrated how to do artificial respiration.

All summaries and records for agricultural projects are due in the county Extension Office by September 24. Leaders should encourage all members to submit complete records. Lancaster County competes against other counties for percentage of completion just as clubs and individuals compete during the year.

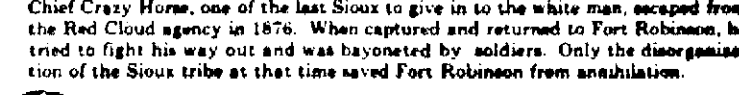

Applications for awards are also due on September 24. The awards committee will meet on September 27. Dozens of worthwhile awards are listed in the Awards Bulletin EC 0-10-2.

Leaders should encourage the leading members to make an application. Members owe it to themselves to check the trips, medals, and cash awards that are available now that the real work on the project is completed. Those who wish, and don't apply, have no chance to win.

Now is the time to reorganize your club for 1957. Clubs started now can proceed at their own pace in holding the required six meetings. Extra recreational meetings can be held. Invite all of the eligible young people of your community with their parents to an organizational meeting.

Your county Extension Agents and Home Extension Agents welcome invitations to such meetings.

It Happened In NEBRASKA . . .

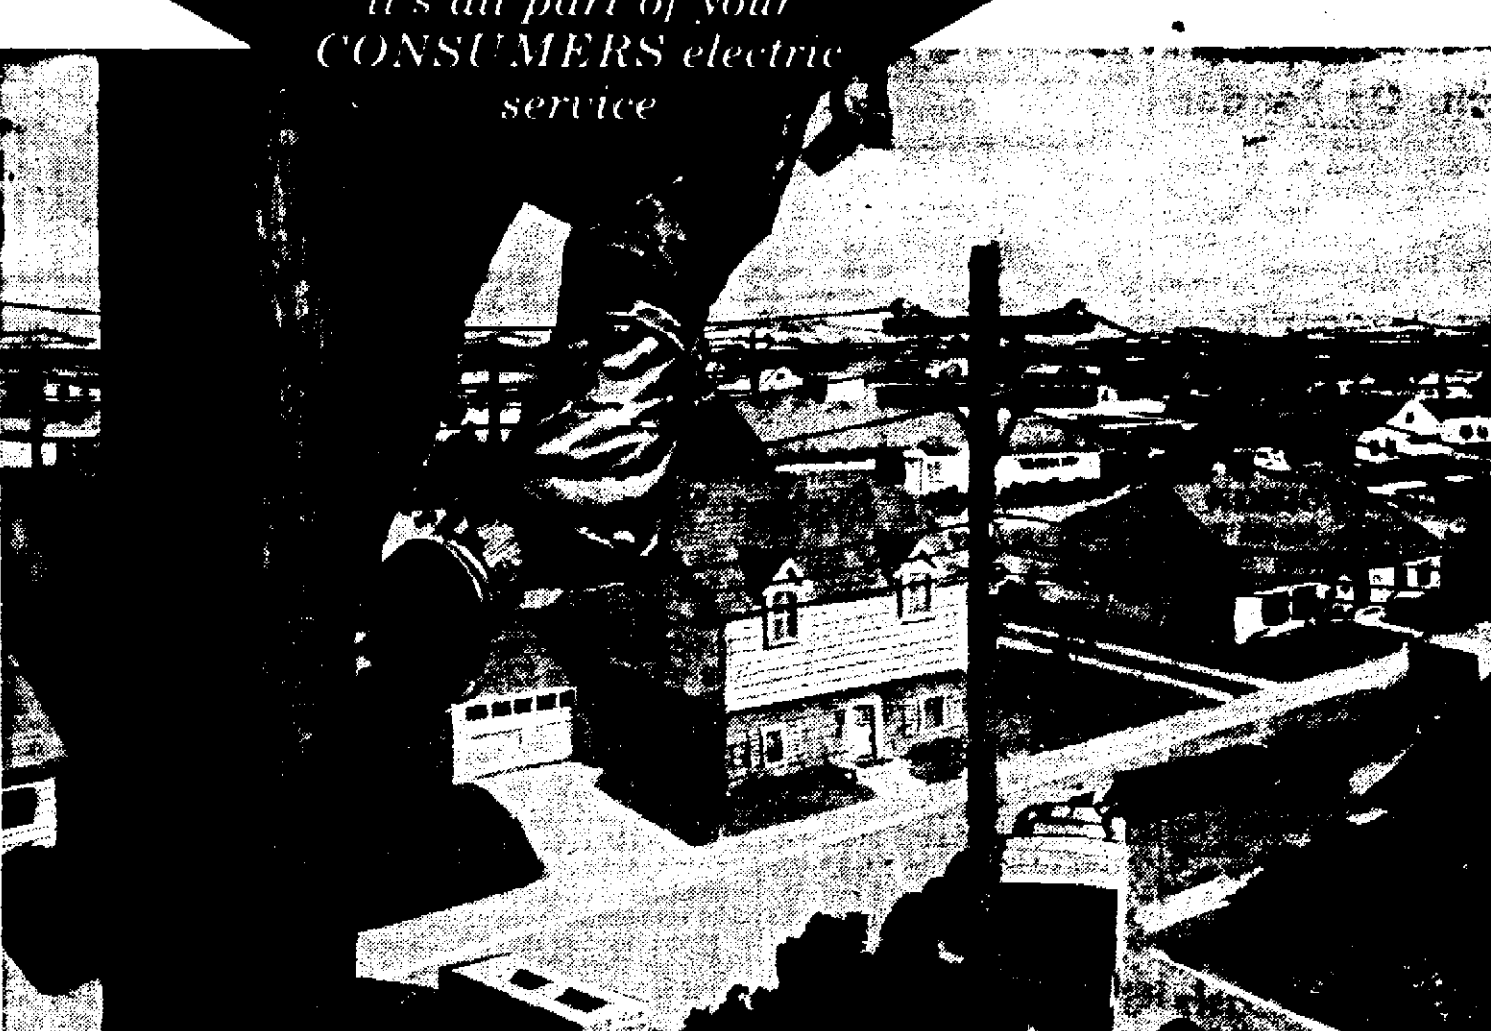

Chief Crazy Horse, one of the last Sioux to give in to the white man, escaped from the Red Cloud agency in 1876. When captured and returned to Fort Robinson, he tried to fight his way out and was bayoneted by soldiers. Only the disorganization of the Sioux tribe at that time saved Fort Robinson from annihilation.

What a quiet Nebraska we live in—only 80 years later! To most of us, "adventure" today means going out for an evening, or having friends in. And always the high spot of the evening is that cool, refreshing glass of beer. For beer belongs—the right touch every time!

Nixon Reviving 'Chicken In Every Pot'—Estes

EPHRATA, Wash. (INS)—Sen. Estes Kefauver said Sunday that Vice President Richard M. Nixon is reviving the "chicken in every pot" theme on which Herbert Hoover ran 28 years ago.

Nixon's Democratic campaign rival said:

"The parallel, I believe, will frighten a good many Americans." Kefauver made the comment after telling reporters that Nixon was quoted Saturday night as saying that the GOP hopes to "double everyone's standard of living within the next 10 years."

The Senator held a news conference at Longview, Wash., prior to winding up a three-day tour of the Pacific Northwest by addressing a dinner rally at Ephrata, Wash.

'We Could Promise . . .'

Pointing to Nixon's statement that "we could promise two automobiles, three television sets, a better house and a dozen other comforts" in the next decade, Kefauver told newsmen:

"These two automobiles and three television sets sound like a modern day version of Herbert Hoover's promise of 28 years ago—two cars in every garage and a chicken in every pot."

"I don't think Mr. Nixon and the present administration are any more capable of delivering than Mr. Hoover was."

4 Years at Harvard

As for Nixon's statement of hope for a four-day week for Americans eventually, Kefauver said this reminded him of a move in which a candidate for the Senate "promised every man, woman and child a full four-year college education at Harvard."

One newsmen asked Kefauver why he would consider Nixon "any worse" than President Eisenhower.

Kefauver replied:

'Smear and Innuendo'

"I think the American people know about Nixon. I don't think the American people appreciate the campaign of smear and innuendo that Mr. Nixon has conducted in past elections."

"I don't think his is the kind of leadership the people of the country would like to have."

Kefauver's comments marked his fifth straight day of personal attack on Nixon.

The senator drove to Longview from Vancouver, where he attended Baptist church services in the morning. A 12-car motorcade carried the senator and his party along a scenic 35-mile route following the Columbia River.

Club Founder Nefsky Honored

D. David Nefsky of 2833 Sheridan, founding president of the South Street Temple Men's Club, was honored at a testimonial dinner Sunday night.

A plaque given "in recognition of his outstanding leadership in the cause of brotherhood, and his inspired service to South Street Temple" officially elected him a "lifetime honorary president of the Brotherhood of Congregation B'nai Jeshurun." The plaque was presented by Kurt Kaufman, local brotherhood president.

Nefsky has been active in the Midwest Council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, serving as president and board member of the six-state federation. He has also served on the board of directors of the South Street Temple.

Mr. Leo Wertgame of Kansas City, president of the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods, paid tribute to Nefsky for his community spirit and his contribution to the Jewish Reform Movement.

Louis Shifrin of St. Louis, Mo., president of the Midwest Council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, also spoke.

The invocation was given by Rabbi Jay Marcus of Topeka, Kan., and Rabbi Wolfgang Hamburger of the South Street Temple, gave the benediction. Julian Lyons was toastmaster.

Jacob Spadt, 74, Found Dead Here

Jacob Spadt, 74, was found dead in his room at 144 No. 10th, Sunday afternoon.

Acting coroner, Deputy Sheriff Del Ziemann, said the man died of natural causes.

Two of the men, the sheriff's office said, are on parole from the State Reformatory. All three were jailed for investigation early Saturday morning, one at the city jail and the other two at the county jail.

The housekeeper suffered black eyes during the assault, she told the sheriff's office.

Lancaster 4-H Reports

The Hilltop Aggies met at the home of Dick Gould. Members prepared applications for dairy awards.

The Cedar Hill Cookies club met at the home of Janet Adams. This was the club's Achievement Day and the members brought their mothers as guests. Mrs. Morris Hammer and the members gave a demonstration on "Good Eating on the Road to Good Health". The members also demonstrated making sandwiches and entertained their mothers with games and piano solos. The club members ended the club year with a weiner roast. Members turned in their completed project books and talked about plans and projects for next year.

The 4-H Pals and their mothers gathered for Achievement Night recently. The girls displayed their kitchen sets. Members turned in their completed record books. Five members participated in demonstrations at the State Fair. They were Audrey Kahler, Joan Walters, Snickerdoodle, Wallis Lundeen, Joann Kerns, potatoholders; and Marilyn Fox and Wallis Lundeen, peanut butter cookies.

The Town and Country 4-H club met at the home of Orest Erskine. The club planned a swimming party. Beverly Ronhoyde demonstrated what to do in case of fainting.

Ronnie Ronhoyde demonstrated how to do artificial respiration.

All summaries and records for agricultural projects are due in the county Extension Office by September 24. Leaders should encourage all members to submit complete records. Lancaster County competes against other counties for percentage of completion just as clubs and individuals compete during the year.

Applications for awards are also due on September 24. The awards committee will meet on September 27. Dozens of worthwhile awards are listed in the Awards Bulletin EC 0-10-2.

Leaders should encourage the leading members to make an application. Members owe it to themselves to check the trips, medals, and cash awards that are available now that the real work on the project is completed. Those who wish, and don't apply, have no chance to win.

Now is the time to reorganize your club for 1957. Clubs started now can proceed at their own pace in holding the required six meetings. Extra recreational meetings can be held. Invite all of the eligible young people of your community with their parents to an organizational meeting.

Your county Extension Agents and Home Extension Agents welcome invitations to such meetings.

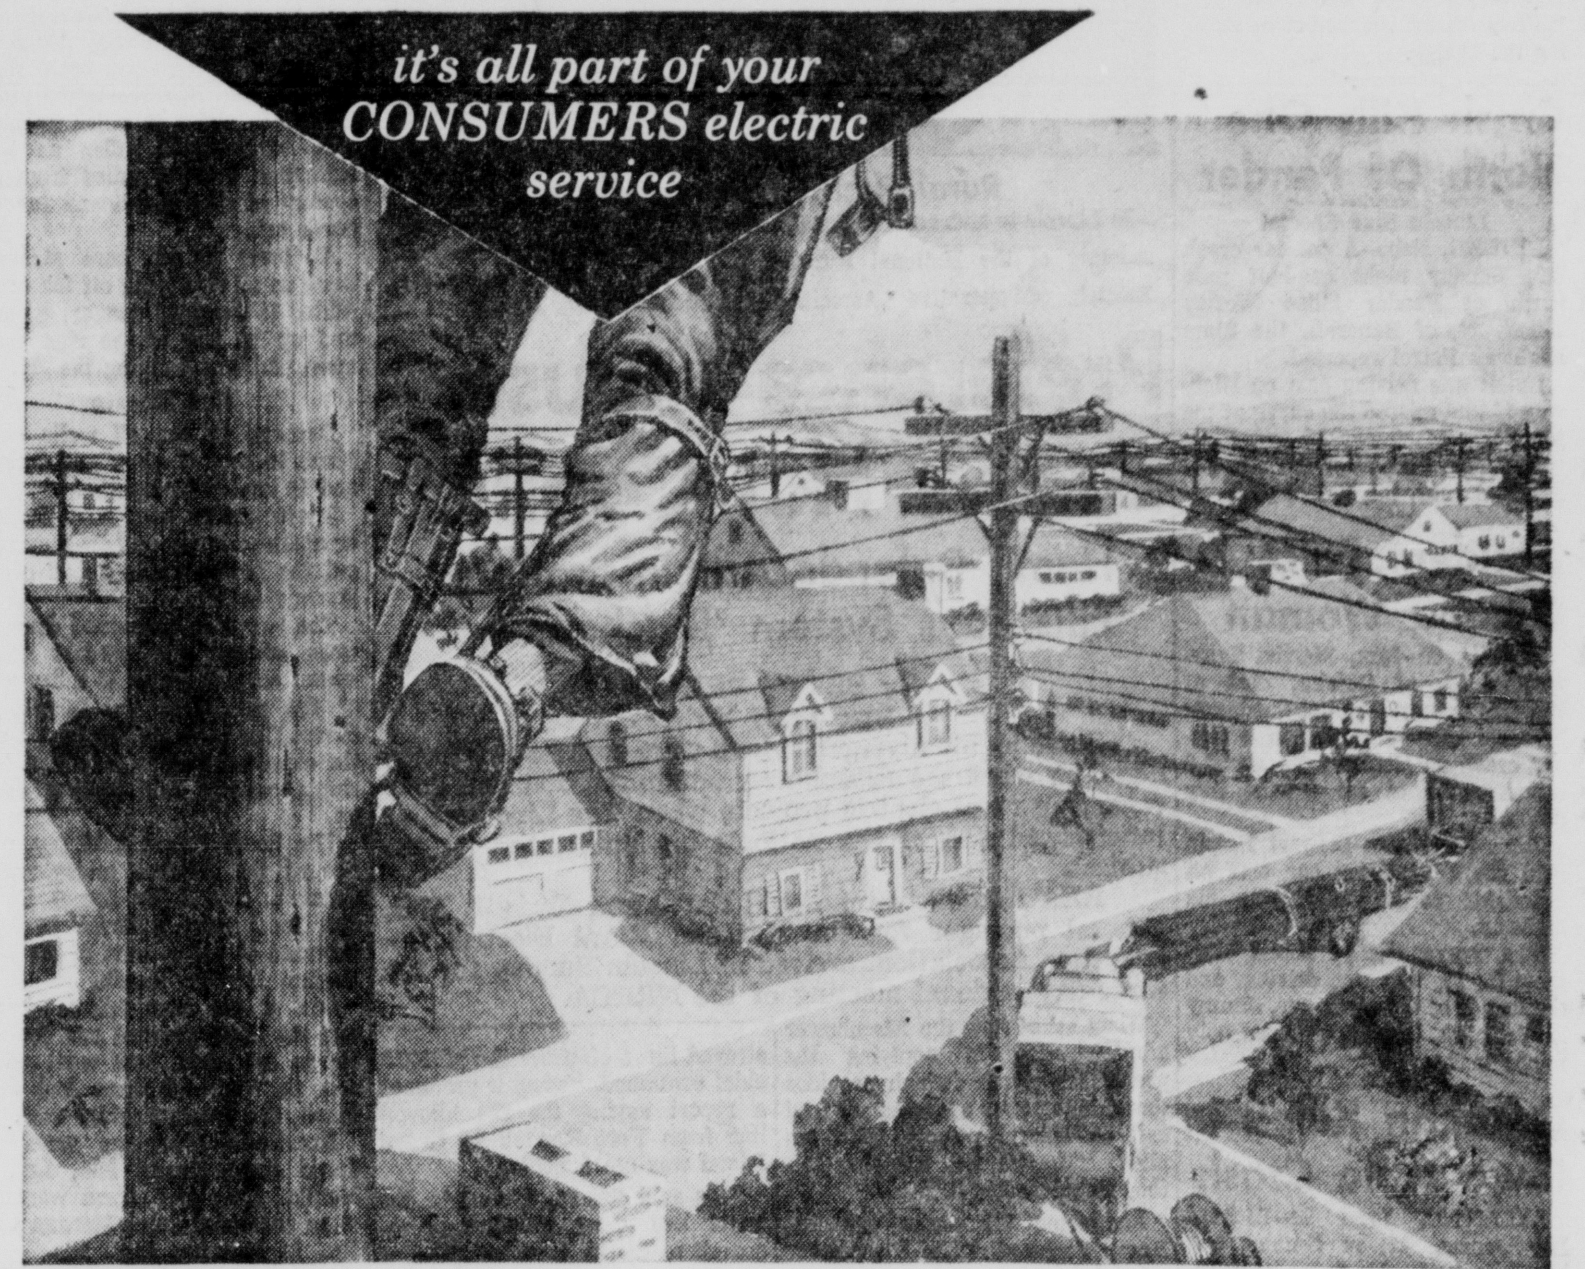

It Happened In NEBRASKA---

Chief Crazy Horse, one of the last Sioux to give in to the white man, escaped from the Red Cloud agency in 1876. When captured and returned to Fort Robinson, he tried to fight his way out and was bayoneted by soldiers. Only the disorganization of the Sioux tribe at that time saved Fort Robinson from annihilation.

What a quiet Nebraska we live in—only 80 years later! To most of us, "adventure" today means going out for an evening, or having friends in. And always the high spot of the evening is that cool, refreshing glass of beer. For beer belongs—the right touch every time!

Gavins Point Power Started

YANKTON, S. D. (AP)—The $25-million Gavins Point dam power plant where the first of three generators was put in service Sunday is "more than a local or regional achievement," Brig. Gen. Gerald E. Galloway said.

"It is part of a great system of water resources developments throughout the country which has made particularly significant strides in our Missouri Basin in the last decade," he said.

Gen. Galloway's remarks were prepared for ceremonies marking the initiation of power production at Gavins Point.

The second and third generators planned for the Gavins Point plant are scheduled to go into operation in November and January, bringing a total installed capacity of 100,000 kilowatts to the plant, which now is linked with power production at Fort Peck, Garrison, and Fort Randall dams.

"Tremendous Resource"

These four main steam power plants now have a total installed capacity of 678,000 kilowatts. "By this time next year we anticipate that the total production from the four plants may reach 350,000,000 kilowatt hours each month," he said. "This constitutes a tremendous new resource within our basin."

Gen. Galloway said that while the theme of the Sunday ceremony was "hydro power . . . I am sure you are all fully cognizant of the fact that power is only one of the purposes of this Missouri Basin River development program authorized in 1944 . . .

"Actually the primary function of this project which rests partly on Nebraska soil and partly on South Dakota's border, is the re-regulation of water releases from upstream reservoirs. It will serve a highly important purpose in smoothing out the surges of water from the big Fort Randall powerhouse with its 320,000 kilowatts of capacity."

5 Cars Of UP Train Derail Near Cozad; None Injured

COZAD, Neb. (AP)—The east-west Union Pacific Railroad line was blocked for several hours Sunday by the derailment of five cars of a 75-car train. No one was injured.

The main line was cleared at mid-afternoon Sunday.

Shortly after the derailment, fire broke out in a small Union Pacific building near the tracks and spread to another small structure before firemen extinguished the blaze.

The cars, loaded with cattle, were derailed at 6:45 a.m. right in front of the U.P. Depot. Authorities were unable to determine the immediate cause of the accident.

They estimated that 15 head of cattle were killed when the five cars left the track and overturned. Three persons narrowly escaped serious injury when a 30 to 40 foot section of track was thrown into the air from the force of the derailment.

$11,000 for a five-year study by the department of agronomy on "The Inheritance and Agronomic Relationships of Protein Content in the Grain of Winter Wheat."

Dr. Elvin Frolik, associate director of agricultural experiment stations, said, "Wheat is known to be suitable as a feed for cattle. However, since 1941 little, if any, wheat has been used as feed for cattle."

Dr. Frolik said feeding trials, financed by the $26,000 grant, will provide an opportunity to evaluate different methods of preparing wheat and the use of wheat and different roughages in fattening rations.

For the first year, $6,000 will be used in the study, with $10,000 set aside for each of the next two years.

High Proteins

The second study will be concerned with the feasibility of transmitting high-protein characteristics to adapted high-yielding hard red winter wheat.

Dr. Frolik said high-protein bread wheat commands a higher price than low-protein wheat. "An increase of one per cent grain protein in an average Nebraska wheat crop would result in more than 40 million pounds of additional proteins and a correspondingly enormous increase in its value for breadmaking purposes."

Established by the Legislative Act 518, the Commission obtains its funds from a quarter-cent tax per bushel which the grower pays at the time he sells the wheat.

Behind Closed Doors

This note from staffer Bill Dobler relating to the meetings of Lincoln's Charter Revision Committee:

"The Charter Revision Committee has discussed the presence of the press at their meetings. There was some sentiment in favor of closed meetings but the decision was made to hold the meetings open to the press for the time being but subject to closing at a later date if so desired by the membership."

We trust no circumstance arises that suggests to the Charter Revision Committee it should adopt the practice of executive sessions, excluding the press from attendance. The high caliber of the members of this committee—all public spirited, capable, and conscientious in public service—suggests it will not fall into the mistake easily of barring the press from its deliberations. This is public business which is under consideration in the revision of a new charter for city government.

It is not only public business but business of the first order of importance. Whenever the committee should have matters before it that cannot be spread out fully for the public to see and to hear—a development which we do not believe likely to take place—then those charged with the responsibility of revising the charter have reached a none-too-pretty pass. That we recognize was not the idea of those suggesting executive sessions. It was the thought that behind closed doors discussion would be more frank.

There is no good reason why discussion cannot be fully frank with the doors open wide.

Alaska's New Appeal

When Congress convenes next January, an Alaskan newspaper reminds us, two Alaskan United States senators and an Alaskan representative chosen by the people of Alaska will travel to Washington to aid Alaska in its continuing fight for statehood.

Recently, the Fairbanks News Miner notes, a large majority of Alaskan voters approved a constitution for the proposed state of Alaska.

And, at the same time the territorial voters gave approval to the provisions of what is known as the Alaska-Tennessee plan. We hope the Alaskans at long last are successful in the fight for statehood. The people of Alaska so richly deserve recognition. As the Fairbanks News Miner points out in announcing a special edition telling of Alaskan development from the days of Russian ownership and purchase by the United States up until the present time, there are more than 200,000 second-class citizens "forced to exist in a colonial status reminiscent of the colonies prior to the American Revolution, and living in the Territory of Alaska under the unjust system of taxation without representation."

How much longer we can continue to deny Alaska statehood is anybody's guess. But this much is evident. The people of Alaska are becoming more impatient after years of frustration and delay. The old arguments that Alaska is without a satisfactory system of schools, acceptable transportation means, and other facilities are beginning to wear a bit thin. The fact is that the Congress which will be seated next January should give approval to both Alaskan and Hawaiian statehood.

No Time To Stop

It was only a few weeks ago, after a sensational expose, that Orville E. Hodge, Republican state auditor for Illinois, admitted that it was he who diverted almost $1,500,000 from the state till for his own use.

Hodge is now serving a sentence of from 12 to 15 years in an Illinois prison. Some of the diverted money has been recovered for the state and more will be had by liquidating Hodge's private holdings.

The scandal is back in the news. Mrs. Hodge has broken her silence to assert that her husband, though guilty in part, was not alone in the $1.5 million grab; that he was sold down the river by participants with well known names and that he is expiating for the crime of others besides himself.

The case which resulted in the prime conviction of Hodge has also led to the imprisonment of two others for lesser parts, and the drowning of another. But obviously the case should not be closed until it has been determined that all who have had a felonious part are brought to light and justice. If influences which effected the defection of a public official and shared in the loot are not identified and broken up the same structure that raided the state will live on for a repeat performance.

It is not only to the interest of Illinois but to those determined on good government everywhere that Mrs. Hodge's charges be taken seriously.

It remained for James Reston, one of the ace political writers of the gifted staff of the New York Times and the chief of its Washington bureau, succeeding Arthur Krack, to contribute one of the most politically significant columns in many a blue moon. Mr. Reston, rarely cynical although steeped in the politics of the national capital, was describing the start of Vice-President Nixon's 26-state campaign tour at the Washington airport, a start in which President Eisenhower participated. Mr. Reston did not phrase it in these exact words but when his fingers had finished with the typewriter what they had spelled out was to suggest that a seasoned correspondent was a bit sickened by what he had seen.

"Not 'give 'em Hell' but 'Give 'em Heaven'—that is clearly going to be the Republican campaign strategy," were the opening words of Reston. "President Eisenhower spelled it all out for Vice-President Nixon and other Republican campaigners at the hit the glory road on the Chautauqua circuit has a campaign been launched in such a cloud (why cloud?) of high-minded morality. It was lovely. Nobody said a single nasty word about 'the Democrat party.' Nobody was beastly to Mr. Stevenson. Peace, prosperity, and progress were all over the place and truth was extolled as the symbol of victory. Something's happening to these politicians. This morning Elder Lightfoot Solomon Michaux called on the president at the White House and announced later: 'We were so busy talking about Heaven that we didn't have time to talk about politics.' Elder Michaux is a local preacher who sent General Eisenhower a recording of his last Sunday's sermon comparing 'the New Deal, the Fair Deal, and the Heaven-born deal.' This last is his characterization of the Eisenhower administration. And it sounded precisely that way in the big send-off. . . . Seldom have so many politicians gathered together before 8 in the morning for a ham and eggs feed in the history of the capital and never in the history of this washish community has such a bland formula for political success been outlined. General Eisenhower told Mr. Nixon, Senator Knowland, Rep. Joe Martin, Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton and Rep. Charles Halleck, all poised for flight, they were going out to do a job 'First for all your country and only incidentally for your party.'"

That may have been the idea of it but reading in between the lines it appears that Mr. Reston, writing for the pre-Eisenhower New York Times, had some reservations about it. If we may be permitted to interpret Mr. Reston's interpretation of the big send-off, then he seemed to feel it had entirely too much goodness running out the ears.

"The scene," Mr. Reston wrote, "was nothing quite so much as the commanding general exhorting his commanders before the battle. When he says he wants truth and nothing but the truth, the assembled politicians become as so many lads in Sunday School, and when he moves through a crowd as he did on the way to the Vice-President's plane, he is still the impressive commanding hero. He didn't miss a political bet this morning. He took every opportunity to be seen and photographed with the Vice President. He spotted and shook hands with some airplane workers and kitchen help at plane-side. He spotted one nine-year-old and demanded to know why he wasn't in school. The startled kid said he was excused. Meanwhile, an electrical noise machine blared away an idolatrous ditty about 'Ike—You Are the One We Idolize' and he held his hands to his ears in mock horror." There is more—much more—all this, and heaven too—and it appears that Mr. Reston was seeing much more than he was expected to see.

The wonder is that cynicism seemed to take command of him, a sharp-eyed, tough correspondent. Apparently something was happening not only to the politicians but something happened to Mr. Reston to impel him to write in the vein, which he did, and The Times to give what Mr. Reston wrote the prominence which it did.

Private Eye Used On Harold Stassen

WASHINGTON — Only a few trusted henchmen know it, but a private agent was tailing Harold Stassen on behalf of Vice President Nixon during the "Stop-Nixon" drive to see what he could find out about the man who organized it.

He didn't discover much, however, except that Stassen led a moral, humdrum life and didn't have much support for his drive to dump Nixon.

This unusual political espionage was arranged by Vic Johnston, former right-hand man to Sen. McCarthy and now staff director of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee. Johnston hired James Walter, an investigator for the Senate Internal Security Committee, to shadow Stassen. Walter posed as a free-lance newspaperman and turned in daily written reports. This column has seen his secret reports submitted from the first week in August.

On August 5, Walter cased Stassen at the Sheraton-Carlton hotel and reported:

"Suite 616 is set up like an office with bed and living room furniture removed. This office also contained lists of delegates to the San Francisco convention. Some of the names on some of the state lists had been scratched off while others had a penciled question mark opposite their names. . . . despite Stassen's claims that a heavy volume of mail is arriving daily, the mail observed on Mrs. Coleman's desk (Stassen's secretary) was not in any great quantity and a quick rifle failed to reveal any checks or money orders."

The gumshoe also kept watch on another Stassen office and reported:

Pennies, Pine Needles From A Man's Wallet

It was a mistake, that remark I made about renting a storehouse for the overflow when Mrs. F. sent me to her purse to hunt for the car keys.

It should not have been held against me, though. One of a man's inalienable rights, as can be seen by a quick glance at any compilation of humor down through the ages, is the right to make disparaging remarks about a woman's purse and the amount of stuff it holds.

Mrs. F. was not in a mood to honor the traditions, though. She gained control of my wallet by the simple expedient of tickling me until I was off guard, then extracting it from my hip pocket. She then added insult to injury by remarking on how much slimmer I looked about the hips.

"And just to think," she commented, "that I always assumed all that padding was really you, down there."

"Do not try to divert my attention," I said, "from the fact that you are rifling my wallet."

She said she was not rifling. She was just counting. Then she wanted to know of what possible use a 1939 Arizona fishing license could still be to me. Before I could answer, she said, "My goodness—here's one for 1942 from Nevada, and one for 1951 from Minnesota. Another one from Colorado, for 1948—"

"Those are keepsakes—"

"Don't interrupt! Here's a business card from a man named John D. Szymanski. Who in the world is he?"

I couldn't for the life of me remember who John D. Szymanski was, nor when I had come by his card. I didn't get a chance to say so, though. Mrs. F. was counting off things.

"An Indian head penny, a photo of a rowboat with nobody in it, a street car token from Chicago, three driver's licenses, all expired, five grocery lists—"

She broke off to study the grocery lists. Then she beamed.

"Oh, now I remember. These were the ones you forgot to get. Golly, we didn't know how lucky we were with those low prices, back there in the '30's, did we?"

"Give me my wallet," I demanded.

"There are three compartments I haven't even started on yet," she said, fending me off. "Look here! Two pocket calendars for 1950, and seven old membership cards in things. Say, what's this old fishing line doing in here? And how did you ever come to put a sprig of pine needles in your wallet?"

"Give me—"

"Nopet! Two and a half compartments to go yet. Who knows but what I might even find some old gold certificates if I look long enough. There is everything else. Here's the point of an old fountain pen, and a newspaper clipping about Roosevelt's second term—"

She got so interested in the clipping that I snatched the wallet and ran, mentally vowing never again to mention the contents of a woman's purse.

Besides, I think I'll clean out my wallet, first chance I get. Those pine needles still puzzle me—I don't remember why I put them in there.

BILL DOBLER At City Hall

Sewer Program; Public Housing

The plan which has now been adopted by the board of Sanitary District 1 for improvements to the sanitary sewer system will be a disappointment to many people.

This Monday the plan will be before the City Council for its approval. The general idea of the plan is for the district to maintain, operate and enlarge a sewer disposal plant at 22nd and Theresa.

The other end of the improvement program, construction of main or trunk line sewers both within and outside the city limits, will be the city's responsibility. The program would get sewers built, which is more than the two bodies have been able to do in the past, but it is not the most sensible solution.

The plan will perpetuate for many long years a governmental subdivision for which there is little actual need. It will mean also continuation of a split authority over the sanitary sewer program—the city collecting sewage and the district disposing of it.

Despite the contract the district will enter into with the city, guaranteeing treatment of all sewage delivered to it, this split responsibility will undoubtedly lead to more disputes and disagreements in the future. It seems logical also that the split will cost the city money when it tries to sell revenue bonds to finance its trunk line expansion.

This is a point which obviously could not be proved but bond buyers would probably make a better bid if the entire sanitary program were under one body rather than two, despite whatever guarantees are on the books.

It is difficult to understand why the members of the district board are so intent upon keeping a tight hold on their disposal plant. They point out that the district is familiar with its operation and thus can do a better job with it than any other group. This is open to serious question.

Certainly the district is familiar with the plant but that does not mean it is the only organization capable of efficiently operating the unit.

It is pointed out further that there was a desire to disrupt existing governmental structures and organizations as little as possible. We fail to see the virtue in this. Disruption, if that is what you choose to call it, has frequently led to substantial savings.

Another principle on which the split improvement plan is based is speed. It would be interesting to see how the split program could be any speedier than a program centered entirely in one organization. In either case, legislation on the state level would be necessary.

It thus seems to us that there is little, if any, valid reason for continuation of the district's operation of the disposal plant. As to going completely out of business, the district's best grounds to oppose that are its flood control responsibilities.

However, the day will come when these responsibilities will be largely disposed of. The plans of the Army Corps of Engineers have already considerably reduced the work left for the district to do in this regard. Certainly the district's flood control program will be completed before the sewer improvement program is paid off.

If the district did not maneuver itself into perpetual existence through the sewer improvement program, it could at least be dissolved when its flood control work was finished.

A most impressive picture was painted recently by a St. Louis, Mo. newspaper of that city's fight against decay of old residential areas.

The dilapidated ring of tenement slums around the St. Louis business area is rapidly being transformed into bright, healthful residential areas. The program there is being spearheaded by public housing with an assist from a strong minimum standards housing ordinance which is enforced with great diplomacy.

Lincoln's City Council long ago turned down public housing and the issue has probably been killed for all time here. It is the hope of the City Planning Commission that a good urban renewal program will accomplish much the same thing.

However, the problem in urban renewal is that while it cleans the old areas out, it has no provisions for replacing that which is destroyed. Urban renewal can tear down an old dwelling, but it does not provide a new one such as public housing does.

There is some question as to just how far Lincoln will be able to use any urban renewal program in view of that situation. The federal government is not expected to look favorably on a grant of urban renewal funds if they are to be used to displace families having no other place in which to live.

Speaking of the benefits to St. Louis accrued through the public housing program there, the newspaper account closed with this paragraph:

"The city benefits, also through improvements in the housing projects have stimulated in adjacent areas. But the biggest gain lies in curbing of disease and delinquency, elimination of slum standards, salvaging of human lives as well as property."

That is a brief idea of what Lincoln lost when it sacrificed public housing for the benefit of a few selfish interests. And where, we might add, are the low-rent housing units promised by those same interest groups so long ago in consideration of defeat for public housing?

These same groups also promised housing for Lincoln Air Force Base personnel. The Air Force eventually found an answer to the promise—it is now building its own housing at the base.

Local Bakeries

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: For what reason does our school lunch program have to purchase out-of-town bakery items? It may have been offered on a bid basis but in all fairness, shouldn't our local bakers be patronized? They employ local people, use local ingredients and pay a big tax back to the city and schools.

We have seen almost all of our local bakeries absorbed. Certainly our local civic groups should be concerned with local business and encourage its growth.

A lot of controversy has arisen over this recent move. I believe our local bakers can offer just as good prices and services. They certainly should be patronized.

I am not connected with any bakery except as a bystander who hates to see Lincoln firms hurt by such moves, especially by civic groups who should have Lincoln welfare at heart. How can we expect to attract new business here when we permit such practices?

LINCOLNITE

Editor's Note: The bid which was accepted for furnishing bread to the Lincoln schools for the current year was the low bid. The company which will supply it, the editor was told, maintains an office in Lincoln and operates its bread trucks here, therefore paying taxes in Lincoln. The situation, however, has nothing to do with taxes because not a dime of taxpayers' money is spent by the school lunchrooms. They are all self-supporting.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The press accounts of Sen. Goldwater's remarks report a syllogism based on a fallacy too obvious for comment. The real point of the omission from the 1956 Democratic platform is that the same distinction is held by the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. The senator may be ignorant about our historic documents.

The Nebraska Republican hierarchy upholds the party line of looking backward fondly in featuring men like Goldwater.

So much evidence can be adduced to justify democracy that it almost looks like an unanimous verdict. But now and then an instance crops up that defies explanation.

Not too long ago Rep. Thomas J. Lane of Massachusetts was confronted with charges of income tax evasion in the sum of $38,500. He pleaded guilty and served four months in prison. In the face of that he filed for re-nomination and the district electorate gave him a flattering vote. He won easily.

This note from staffer Bill Dobler relating to the meetings of Lincoln's Charter Revision Committee:

"The Charter Revision Committee has discussed the presence of the press at their meetings. There was some sentiment in favor of closed meetings but the decision was made to hold the meetings open to the press for the time being but subject to closing at a later date if so desired by the membership."

We trust no circumstance arises that suggests to the Charter Revision Committee it should adopt the practice of executive sessions, excluding the press from attendance. The high caliber of the members of this committee—all public spirited, capable, and conscientious in public service—suggests it will not fall into the mistake easily of barring the press from its deliberations.

Alaska's New Appeal

When Congress convenes next January, an Alaskan newspaper reminds us, two Alaskan United States senators and an Alaskan representative chosen by the people of Alaska will travel to Washington to aid Alaska in its continuing fight for statehood.

Recently, the Fairbanks News Miner notes, a large majority of Alaska voters approved a constitution for the proposed state of Alaska.

And, at the same time the territorial voters gave approval to the provisions of what is known as the Alaska-Tennessee plan. We hope the Alaskans at long last are successful in the fight for statehood. The people of Alaska so richly deserve recognition. As the Fairbanks News Miner points out in announcing a special edition telling of Alaskan development from the days of Russian ownership and purchase by the United States up until the present time, there are more than 200,000 second-class citizens "forced to exist in a colonial status reminiscent of the colonies prior to the American Revolution, and living in the Territory of Alaska under the unjust system of taxation without representation."

How much longer we can continue to deny Alaska statehood is anybody's guess. But this much is evident. The people of Alaska are becoming more impatient after years of frustration and delay. The old arguments that Alaska is without a satisfactory system of schools, acceptable transportation means, and other facilities are beginning to wear a bit thin. The fact is that the Congress which will be seated next January should give approval to both Alaska and Hawaiian statehood.

There is some question as to just how far Lincoln will be able to use any urban renewal program in view of that situation. The federal government is not expected to look favorably on a grant of urban renewal funds if they are to be used to displace families having no other place in which to live.

Speaking of the benefits to St. Louis accrued through the public housing program there, the newspaper account closed with this paragraph:

"The city benefits also through improvements the housing projects have stimulated in adjacent areas. But the biggest gain lies in curbing of disease and delinquency, elimination of slum standards, salvaging of human lives as well as property."

That is a brief idea of what Lincoln lost when it sacrificed public housing for the benefit of a few selfish interests. And where, we might add, are the low-rent housing units promised by those same interest groups so long ago in consideration of defeat for public housing?

These same groups also promised housing for Lincoln Air Force Base personnel. The Air Force eventually found an answer to the promise—it is now building its own housing at the base.

Local Bakeries

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: For what reason does our school lunch program have to purchase out-of-town bakery items? It may have been offered on a bid basis but in all fairness, shouldn't our local bakers be patronized? They employ local people, use local ingredients and pay a big tax back to the city and schools.

We have seen almost all of our local bakeries absorbed. Certainly our local civic groups should be concerned with local business and encourage its growth.

A lot of controversy has arisen over this recent move. I believe our local bakers can offer just as good prices and services. They certainly should be patronized.

I am not connected with any bakery, have no interest in the matter except as a bystander who hates to see Lincoln firms hurt by such moves, especially by civic groups who should have Lincoln welfare at heart. How can we expect to attract new business here when we permit such practices?

LINCOLNITE

Editor's Note: The bid which was accepted for furnishing bread to the Lincoln schools for the current year was the low bid. The company which will supply it, the editor was told, maintains an office in Lincoln and operates its bread trucks here, therefore paying taxes in Lincoln. The situation, however, has nothing to do with taxes because not a dime of taxpayers' money is spent by the school lunchrooms. They are all self-supporting.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: We wish to take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation to The Star for the fine coverage given the 4-H club division at the Nebraska State Fair. Our 4-H club members and leaders received inspiration from the recognition that The Star has provided their activities. Our thanks for this interest in and recognition of the work of our 4-H club folks.

Looking Back

Omaha, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The press accounts of Sen. Goldwater's remarks report a syllogism based on a fallacy too obvious for comment. The real point of the omission from the 1956 Democratic platform is that the same distinction is held by the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. The Nebraska Republican hierarchy upholds the party line of looking backward fondly in featuring men like Goldwater.

SUBSCRIBER

Supply And Demand

Hastings, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Fred Seaton tells us that the day is close at hand when, under the Eisenhower farm program, supply and demand will meet each other. And there is the spot to which the Republican party is seeking to drag the producers of this country down. It kept them there for 50 odd years before the Democratic party took over and lifted the producers of this country out of the mire into which they had been pushed by the Republican party, with its supply and demand holler. Fred Seaton knows nothing about what supply and demand did to the farming class. He wasn't born in time, to witness its effects before the days of Hoover. But the days of Hoover ought to have been enough for him! Supply and demand ruled then.

Let us examine this talk about parity. There is no such thing as a high or low parity. Parity is an equality or an equivalence. It is the level between two objective points. Being such, it ought to be an honest affair. It ought to render honest service.

Apparently, however, the Eisenhower supporters don't want an honest deal. They want to hand the farmer and producer a one-handed skillet, with the handle in their hands. That's what the soil bank plan is. They can ladle out the goods just before election time. Why don't they tell the producers that they don't believe in their right to stand on an equality at the counter with the fellow behind it. They dare not tell him that in which they believe.

Big Eater

Odell, Neb.

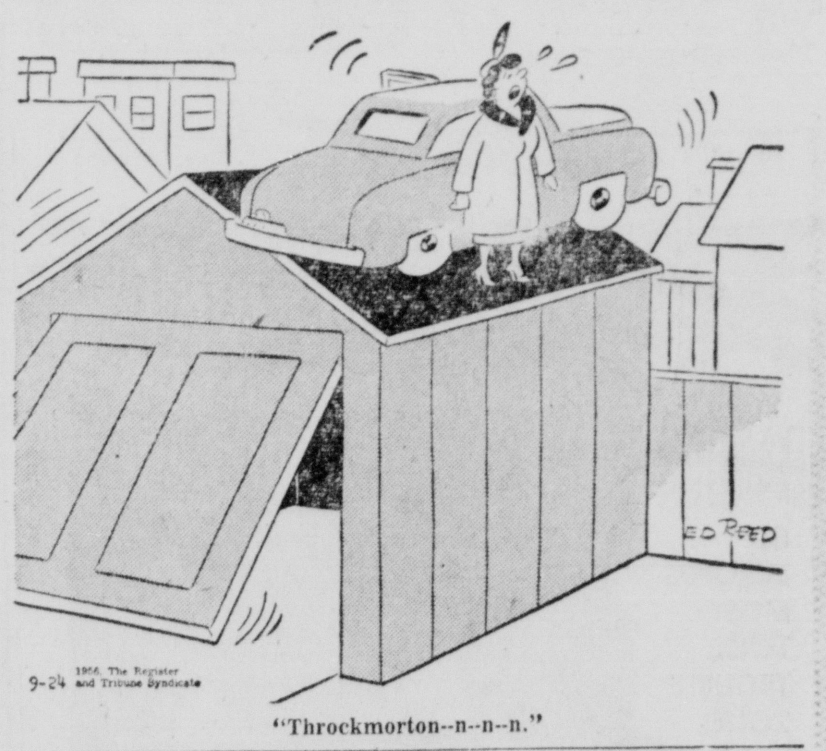

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Today we heard over the radio that Ike inherited the big surplus crop of wheat from Truman. Well, we are funny in a funny way. If we had a shortage of grain the Republicans would blame Truman also. They would say he did wrong in every way. That's politics. I have watched it for 50 years or more.

Years ago my neighbor and I had a big laugh over William Jennings Bryan and McKinley in a paper. Bryan was said to be an awful big eater; his dishes piled high with food, while McKinley's you could hardly see the food on their plates they ate so little. There were surpluses then but Mr. Bryan was held up to criticism as a big eater.

MISS GEORGIANA WARBURTON ANDERSON

Of particular interest this morning is the announcement made by Dr. and Mrs. Harley Eric Anderson of Omaha, of the engagement of their daughter, Georgiana Warburton, to Donald Barkley Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Charles Collins of Lincoln.

Miss Anderson is a graduate of Brownell Hall, Omaha, and Bradford Junior College, Haverhill, Mass. She received her degree in June from the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Delta Gamma sorority.

Mr. Collins, who now is enrolled in the Officers Candidate Course, Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va., is a graduate of the University of Nebraska with a degree in architectural engineering. He is a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

SUBURBIA

Cotner Terrace still maintains its merry pace of activity—this morning the news from the area involves numerous homecomers, plus an equal number of guests and—of course, guest courtesies. Week-end guests in Cotner Terrace were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Springer, and their daughters, Georgi, Carol and Janet, and Miss Alta Louise Oxtro, all of Aurora, who were visitors in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Forest Morningstar and their children, Carolyn, Kenneth and David.

Mrs. Louise Weishahn was hostess at a family dinner on Friday evening, when she entertained in honor of her son and daughter-in-law, the Rev. and Mrs. Milton F. Weishahn, and their children, Janet, Joyce and Bradley, of Des Moines, Ia. Other guests included Mrs. Weishahn's sons and daughter and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Don Weishahn and Kent; Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Weishahn and Donna, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Kruger, Kathy and Gary.

Visitors in the neighborhood from Valentine were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tyler, who spent three days as guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Parks.

Late—late—summer vacationers out Cotner Terrace way were Mr. and Mrs. George Garland, who are home again after six weeks in California where they visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Garland in El Monte, and also were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beach in Sacramento.

Other homecomers are Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cardwell and Anne Marie, who spent a month touring California where they visited friends and relatives. In Berkeley, the Cardwells were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Badoian and their family, and they also visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fisher and their children in San Francisco. The Cardwells three- some returned to Cotner Terrace last Thursday.

Plan Fall Festival

The feminine members of the Frank H. Woods chapter of the Independent Telephone Pioneer Association will entertain at a Fall Festival dinner next Wednesday evening to be held at 6:30 o'clock at Steinhart Park Lodge in Nebraska City.

Guests who have been invited for the occasion are the feminine members of the Capper E. Yost chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America of Omaha. Bus transportation from Lincoln will be available and reservations must be made by Saturday by calling Georgia Smith, social chairman, 5-4321, extension 103.

Law Wives Entertain At Tea

The University of Nebraska Law Wives entertained at their annual autumn tea Sunday afternoon at Rosa Bouton Hall on the campus. Honored guests were new members of the group, an organization for the wives of University of Nebraska Law College students.

Presiding at the tea table was Mrs. Edmund O. Belsheim, wife of Dean Belsheim of the Law College, and greeting the guests were the club officers: Mrs. James Knapp, president, Mrs.

WE'RE always a bit two faced on Monday morning—we're looking backward as well as forward, picking up some of the late week-end news as well as looking into the future—

On the Sunday calendar was a brunch for which L. T. Fleetwood was host at Hotel Cornhusker when he entertained a guest eighteenth birthday anniversary of his sister, Miss Hilda Fleetwood.

AND IN town during the week-end was Miss Sonya Harding who came from Boulder, Colo., where she is a freshman and Gamma Phi Beta pledge at the University of Colorado, to spend Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Harding. On Sunday Miss Harding won first place in the gelding class with her Moore Red Dust at the Ak-Sar-Ben National Quarter-horse Show in Omaha.

MEAN that Dr. and Mrs. E. V. Wiedman are back in town after a three weeks summer holiday. Dr. and Mrs. Wiedman spent considerable of the time at their summer home in Estes Park where Dr. Wiedman also attended a medical meeting—and managed to find time for a short stay in the Black Hills where they spent a little time with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Putney at their summer home at Sylvan Lake.

WHILE we are on topics of the past we want to tell you about the party for bride-elect Miss Beverly Colbert on last Thursday. Miss Colbert, whose marriage to Jack Halter will be a late autumn event, was honored by Mrs. E. E. Henkle and Mrs. Carl Donaldson who were hostesses at a 10:30 o'clock coffee at the home of Mrs.

Honkle. Miss Colbert was presented with a hostess gift.

THERE also is news of another bride-elect this morning—Miss Patty Ellis, whose marriage to James Alan Miller will be solemnized on Oct. 6.

Next Saturday Miss Ellis will be complimented when her aunt, Mrs. William Wiley entertains at luncheon at her home.

And on next Sunday evening Miss Ellis will share honors with her fiancé when Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Carveth are a dinner host and hostess at their home. The guest list will include only members of the families.

We hear that Miss Ellis has chosen her sister, Miss Sandra Ellis, as her maid of honor, and that her bridesmaids will be Miss Janet Nelson of St. Paul, Minn., Miss Nancy Bateman, Austin, Minn., Miss Sarah Car-voth, Miss Shirley Scott and Miss Janet Miller, sister of the bridegroom.

Sam Haupt Jr., will serve Mr. Miller as best man, and the ushers will include Sam Ellis, brother of the bride; Charles Stuart Jr., Jack von Gillern, Dick Beechner and James Snyder of Hyannis.

LATE week seems to be especially active, judging from the calendar, and among the activities is the dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Barney will be host and hostess at their home when they entertain the members of their dinner club. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Barney the group is composed of Dr. and Mrs. Lee Stover, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Purvis, Mr. and Mrs. William Stenten, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Seward, and Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Sheldon, and Mr. and Mrs. James Ackerman.

Late Summer Weddings--At Home And Abroad

MRS. GENE McDONALD

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Ann Christner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Christner of Hamlet, became the bride of Gene McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McDonald of Murdock, at a ceremony solemnized Sunday afternoon, Sept. 16, in the sunken garden of Antelope Park. The lines of the 4 o'clock service were read by the Rev. Merle McDonald of Lincoln, brother of the bridegroom, and the wedding music was played by Miss Cara Hutchinson.

Attending her sister as matron of honor was Mrs. Donald E. Bornemeier of Murdock, who wore a frock of pale blue polished cotton designed in the daytime mode with a snug bodice and full skirt. She wore a bandeau of white and blue-tinted chrysanthemums, and carried a bouquet of the blossoms.

Robert Chamberlin of Gordon served Mr. McDonald as best man.

For her wedding, the bride wore a walk-length gown of white embroidered nylon sheer over taffeta. A portrait neckline and brief, puffed sleeves accented the fitted bodice, and below the elongated waist, the skirt flared into fullness. A tiara of pearls and sequins held her illusion veil, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with a spray of white orchids.

LT. AND MRS. GEORGE DEWEY BASS JR.

Copper vases filled with gladioli in tones of gold and bronze appointed the chancel of Jammat Chapel in Ankara, Turkey, for the marriage of Miss V. Louise Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Plum of Lincoln, and Paul F. Nelson of Baton Rouge, La., to Lt. George Dewey Bass, Jr., son of Mrs. J. C. Gillespie of Atlanta, Ga., and the late George D. Bass, on Saturday, Aug. 11. The 10 o'clock service was solemnized by Major Albert Moss, U.S. Army chaplain, in the presence of 150 guests, and Bruce Jones, organist, played the wedding music. Mr. Jones also accompanied Miss Amanda Rice, the vocal soloist.

The maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Mary Lou Magorian of Lincoln, who wore a full-skirted frock of shell pink nylon lace over tissue taffeta fashioned in the waist length. Her head wreath of frilled pink lace was twisted with pink pearls, and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Major John J. McElroy served Lt. Bass as best man, and seating the guests were Lt. Col. Floyd K. Long and Lt. William G. Lockwood, all of Ankara, Turkey. The bride appeared in a gown of white French lace smoothed over silk taffeta, with minute pearls tracing the floral motif of the lace. A miniature ruffle of the lace edged the squared decolletage of the bodice, and the ruffled lace extended over the shoulders to form cap sleeves which were complemented by mitts of the lace. The circular skirt flared into dance-length, and a coronet of frilled lace and circlets of pearls held her illusion veil. She carried a white Bible ornamented with a corsage of white roses.

Lt. and Mrs. Bass will reside at Ankara, Turkey, where the bridegroom is stationed with the Air Force. He is a graduate of Georgia Tech where he is affiliated with Delta Tau Delta fraternity. Mrs. Bass is a former student at the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi, and is employed by the University of Nebraska at Ankara.

MRS. VAYDEN R. ANDERSON

At a double ring ceremony solemnized Sunday afternoon, Sept. 23, Miss Joy Nixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Nixon of Stanton, became the bride of Vayden R. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Anderson of Stromsburg. Clusters of lighted white candles and arrangements of all - white chrysanthemums formed the chancel decor at the New England Congregational Church in Stanton where the service, was read by the Rev. Samuel Cushing, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. R. G. Deardorff, organist. Mrs. Deardorff also accompanied the vocal soloist, Mrs. Donald Perkins. Wearing identically - styled frocks of Dupioni silk in the smoke-green tone were Mrs. Richard Havens of Stanton, as the matron of honor; and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Rodney Anderson of Houston, Tex., and Mrs. Donald Hamann, Lake Bluff, Ill. Tiny, puffed sleeves accented the Empire bodices, and their skirts widened into daytime length. They carried modified cascades of white chrysanthemums and ivy. Rodney Anderson of Houston served his brother as best man, and the corps of ushers included Robert E. Anderson, Stromsburg; Stanley V. Thelander, Omaha; Kenneth Rohrs, Thomas E. Morrow and James Waring, all of Lincoln. For her wedding, the bride chose a princess gown of antique white, delustered satin touched with imported lace. The long-sleeved sculptured bodice of lace was designed in the Empire mode with a rounded decolletage dotted with iridescent sequins and pearls. Below the molded waist, the satin skirt flared into extreme fullness and extended into a chapel-length train. Her veil of English silk illusion was held to the head by a Mary, Queen of Scots brim of jeweled lace, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with a single white orchid. Mr. Anderson and his bride will reside at 2502 Franklin, Lincoln. The bride is a graduate of Colorado Woman's College, Denver, Colo., and of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Anderson also is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity and Sigma Tau, engineering honorary.

U.S. Leads In Every Nuclear Field—Cole

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) said Sunday the United States is "the acknowledged leader in every facet of nuclear development, both for national defense as well as non-military uses."

In a statement replying to criticisms by two Democratic former members of the Atomic Energy Commission, Cole said:

"Under President Eisenhower's vision and bold purpose, the United States has done more to promote the peaceful uses of atomic energy and has advanced further toward the goal of efficient, economic nuclear power than any other nation in the world as borne out by the facts . . .

Still In Lead

"We have led the world in atomic development, both military and peacetime; we are still in the lead; we will continue to maintain that leadership if the atom remains free and is not put in the straightjacket of government ownership and operation."

Cole, a member of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, directed his statement at what he called "severely critical" observations by Dr. Henry Smyth, former AEC member, and Gordon Dean, former AEC chairman.

Smyth, in an article last month in the magazine Foreign Affairs, said, "We do not have a single plant in operation producing significant amounts of commercial power from nuclear energy."

'Life Restrictions'

Dean, in a speech at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor on Sept. 16, said that unless the United States lifts all information restrictions on peaceful development of atomic energy it may lose its leadership in that field within a year.

Said Cole:

"Dr. Henry Smyth says that we are lagging behind other countries in our peacetime program, and Gordon Dean . . . condemns certain alleged secret agreements. 'One can expect extreme, exaggerated and even distorted statements to be made by politicians, not Dr. Smyth and Mr. Dean are not of that type . . .

Political Partisanship

"Regardless of the motives of these two gentlemen, such misleading statements can only be regarded as inspired by political partisanship and designed to conceal the fact that until the Eisenhower administration came into office, not even a single project for building a civilian atomic power plant existed, nor any other program or peacetime development of the atom. The development of atomic power was at dead center."

Concerning "secret agreements," Cole said:

"Some agreements for cooperation do contain provisions which the contracting government, for reasons of their national security, have asked not to be publicized. These are in no sense secret agreements . . . He added:

"The charge that we are lagging in international development of atomic power is a rehash of the arguments advanced in the Congress this year by those who would socialize the atom by making it a government monopoly, a position which was rejected by the Congress with complete finality."

STANTON DELAPLANE

POSTCARD

A gray dripping fog slid over the Mendocino coast this morning. A day when the sea is lead-colored and the whistle buoy has a mournful too.

The other day I cleaned out one of those gin gerbread mansions in the San Francisco lumber barons built up on this bleak coast. And I have been sitting with a file of Scribner's from 1907 to 1914, reading how things were a half a century ago.

Richard Harding Davis was in Cuba where All-Star Corporation was filming his book, "Soldiers of Fortune."

"Already the rights to the reels we have shipped north have been sold to moving picture palaces of all of the United States where each day three million people patronize the movies."

Augustus Thomas was director-general of All-Star. He also wrote the scenario, directed the Cuban soldiers and a party of tourists from a Hamburg-American steamer as extras, nailed prop packing boxes, and talked local residents into using their houses for sets.

Dustin Farnum was the star. Davis had seen him as the cowboy in "The Virginian" on the stage and supposed he was chosen for these qualities.

"I was wrong," Davis wrote. "I found that in choosing his star, Mr. Thomas had considered only whether he could or could not wear my clothes. Every other leading actor in America had been measured and found wanting."

"It was proved that he alone was the man whose head my hat would fit, whose legs were at ease in my riding breeches, whose hands were not lost in my gloves."

"The plot against my property developed at the first location. 'That coat is the sort of coat a man would wear in a mining camp,' the director-general said critically. 'Lend it to Farnum—just for this picture.'"

This procedure, Davis reported, doubled Farnum's wardrobe. Movies were truly in their infancy.

Davis titled his article, "Breaking Into the Movies." He had some fascinating information for the three million daily movie patrons.

"Where the pantomime fails to make clear the plot, an 'insert' is used.

"An insert may be the facsimile of a letter, telegram or any written order. Or it may be a line of explanation such as: 'The President grants the American engineers a concession to work iron ore.'"

"Or it may be a bit of dialogue or an exclamation which will make it clear to the audience what the actor is saying or thinking, as: 'I wonder if I would like to be dictator of Olancha?'"

Most of the actors were direct from the stage, Davis reported. On the stage a man's character could be established by spoken lines. "He is the best man on a horse in all Mexico!"

But on the screen—the silent screen—all this had to be proved. And Farnum and his fellow actors galloped and climbed telephone poles and rescued fair ladies in the surf in celluloid proof that they could do all these things.

The Cuban soldier-extras got so excited they shot Actor George Stilwell square in the brisquet. It was a blank. But the wad knocked him kicking.

Sam Colt fell off a donkey. Winifred Kingston was bitten by mosquitoes. Two Cuban soldiers impaled themselves on an iron fence

Joy Named To Hospital Post

John W. Joy, who has spent 15 years in the hospital administration field in Kansas, Iowa and Minnesota, has taken over the duties of administrator of Providence Hospital in Lincoln.

Joy

He came here from Russell, Kan., where he was a administrator of the city hospital for three years.

A 1930 graduate of the Los Angeles County General Hospital School of Nursing, Joy also has attended Pasadena Junior College and the University of Utah and has had short courses in hospital management at the Universities of Kansas and Minnesota.

Joy is a member of the American Hospital Association and a senior member of the American Association for Hospital Accountants.

His wife and their children, a son who is 5 and daughters who are 7 years and 21 months old, will join him in Lincoln within the month.

100 Children Of Deceased Veterans Eligible For Aid

More than 100 Nebraskans who are children of deceased veterans will become eligible this year for government aid for education, according to A. Westmoreland, Veterans Administration regional office manager.

Children between 18 and 23 whose veteran-parent died of injuries or diseases resulting from military service in World War I, World War II or the Korean conflict are eligible, he said.

Most grants under the war orphans education program will include tuition for up to 36 months of training and a monthly subsistence allowance of $110.

Regular high school training, on-the-job and on-the-farm training and correspondence courses are not covered in the program.

But education can be taken in colleges and universities as well as in below-college-level courses which equip students for definite vocational objectives.

Education Unit Consecrated

A capacity crowd of 1,000 persons attended consecration services for the new educational unit of First Methodist Church at 2723 No. 50th Sunday morning.

Bishop H. Bascom Watts of the Nebraska area gave the sermon and conducted the consecration service, and Dr. Carl M. Davidson, pastor, read messages from former pastors and directors of Christian education.

The new addition and its furnishings represent an investment estimated at approximately $200,000. The building contains the church office suite, a large activities hall, library, parlor, kitchenette and kitchen, and 10 classrooms. Dr. Don Clifton was head of the building committee.

Dr. Davidson said the new building, which has been in use since July, has increased considerably the Church's Sunday school activities for pre-school and primary children and made additional space available in the older building for other activities. First Methodist serves students at Nebraska Wesleyan University also.

Further improvements planned at First Methodist include a new memorial chapel, a new church kitchen and renovation of other parts of the church.

Wesleyan Group Plans 'Retreat'

Fifteen students and 10 faculty members from Nebraska Wesleyan University will go to Camp Jefferson at Fairbury this week end to "appraise the religious life" at the university, Chancellor A. Leland Forrest said.

Those attending the two-day retreat also will make plans for developing campus religious organizations and activities to their "highest degree of effectiveness," Dr. Forrest said.

The chancellor and the Rev. L. Edward Mattingly, director of religious life at Wesleyan, are planning the week-end consultation.

Irish, Terp Losses Befuddle Experts

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

The college football season is only one week old—some conferences haven't even started operations—but already the experts are frantically reappraising their pre-season choices for national honors.

Mighty Notre Dame and brow-beating Maryland already have gone down to defeat, along with the Terps' muscular Atlantic Coast Conference mate, Duke.

Not since the end of World War II has opening day left such a carnage of fallen behemoths.

Jittery Powers

The strange part of the entire picture is that both Notre Dame, always a contender for the national title, and Maryland, ranked sixth, were as jittery as a bunch of freshmen going up against the Cleveland Browns.

Why they were, no one probably ever will know, for the Irish, rated third, were favored over Southern Methodist and Maryland was the second choice over Syracuse. As it turned out, SMU, with one of the greenest teams in the Southwest Conference, punished the Irish, 19-13, and Syracuse humiliated Maryland, 26-12.

And to top it all off, South Carolina whipped Duke, 7-0. This was the first time South Carolina has beaten the Blue Devils since 1931—a quarter of a century.

Win As Expected

Otherwise, the first day of the season went pretty much as expected with Georgia Tech, No. 4 in the rankings, polishing off Kentucky with ease, 14-6, and Pitt, regarded as the class of the East, edging West Virginia, 14-13, on a couple of intercepted fumbles. Pitt must play Syracuse next week.

Southern California, with its seniors in action (they can play only five games because of subsidization penalties) polished off Texas, 44-20 with fullback C. R. Roberts running for three long touchdowns, and Rice's young team crushed Alabama 20-13.

North Carolina State spoiled Jim Tatum's "second" debut as North Carolina coach by stopping the Tar Heels, 26-6. The last time State managed to beat North Carolina was back in 1942 when Tatum was serving his first hitch as coach of N.C.

Intersectional Clashes

In intersectional clashes, Texas Christian clubbed Kansas, 32-0; Oregon State triumphed over Missouri, 19-13 and Baylor turned back California, 7-6.

Oklahoma A&M had an easy time with Kansas State, 27-7; Detroit was on top of Marquette, 20-7; George Washington licked Miami of Ohio, 7-6; Wake Forest, vanquished William and Mary, 39-0; Virginia whitewashed VMI, 18-0, and Rutgers rolled over Ohio Wesleyan, 33-13.

Notre Dame had not lost an opening-day game since 1934 when the Irish bowed to another Southwest Conference team, Texas. It was Charlie Arnole, who spent most of last season on the bench, who sparked the Mustangs and kept Terry Brennan's lads in a state of confusion.

Confuses Irish

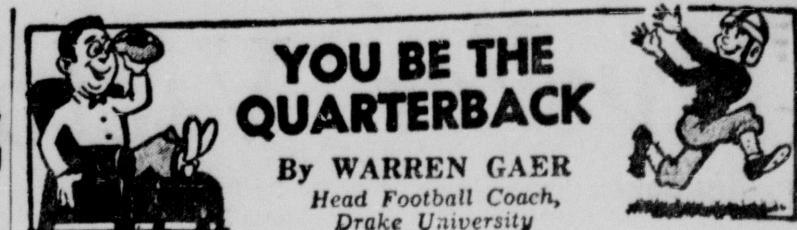

He scored one touchdown, passed for another and set up the third. Except for Paul Hornung, who passed to one score and ran for the other, the Irish simply couldn't cope with Arnole.

But if Brennan was shocked, imagine the consternation of Maryland's coach, 33-year-old Tommy Mont, who was making his debut in the big time after Tatum quit to go back to his alma mater, North Carolina.

Apparently Maryland is going to miss service-bound Frank Tamburello more than it expected. The Terps could have used a good signal-caller against Syracuse and in his absence looked like strictly a mixed-up outfit to the 27,000 shocked spectators at College Park.

Jim Brown, 212 pounds of grid savvy, kept the Terps on the run by taking a touchdown pass from Jim Riddle, blasting over four yards for another and setting up a third with a 78-yard run.

YOU BE THE QUARTERBACK

By WARREN GAER
Head Football Coach,
Drake University

Columbia and Brown are playing the opening game of the season, with the score 0-0 late in the first quarter.

Brown has a promising sophomore field goal kicker but he has never tried a kick in a varsity game. You, the Brown quarterback, have the ball on the Columbia 12-yard line, a little left of the center of the field, fourth down and six.

Your line has been successful in driving the Lions back for three or four yards several times on straight-ahead plays. No passes have been attempted yet but you have a fairly good right-handed passer. Rate these plays 1, 2, 3 and 4 for this spot:

Fullback counter play over center (delayed play with fullback hitting over hole that may be vacated).

Fake pass and Statue of Liberty with halfback taking ball from passer and going around left end.

Attempt a field goal.

Dive play through line by either halfback.

Yankees Decision Boston Red Sox

MANTLE PADS BOSTON BATTLING LEAD

BOSTON (AP) — Gil McDougald's two-run homer spoiled the 20-game bid of Tommy Brewer, and Yogi Berra reached 1,000 runs batted in Sunday as American League champion New York defeated Boston 7-4.

McDougald whacked his 12th homer into the left-field screen off Brewer in the eighth inning to score behind Bill Skowron with the Yankees trailing 4-3. Skowron had singled for his ninth hit in 14 trips for the series.

White Sox, A's Divide Doubleheader

CHICAGO (AP) — Tom Gorman and the Kansas City A's spoiled Billy Pierce's bid for his 21st victory of the season Sunday, 3-2, but the Chicago White Sox came back behind Gerry Staley to win the second game of a doubleheader, 5 to 1.

ORIOLES CLINCH SIXTH PLACE

BALTIMORE (AP) — Connie Johnson hurled a three-hitter at Washington Sunday as the Orioles won 6-0 and assured themselves a sixth-place finish, their best in three years, in the American League.

Johnson struck out nine, walked only two and kept the Senators under tight control throughout the contest, witnessed by 8,766. Clint Courtney's triple off the right-field wall in the fifth was the only Washington hit that went for extra bases.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

BAERING DOWN ON THE NEWS By Arthur 'Bugs' Baer

There are 36 shopping days until election Tuesday and one to grow on.

Both sides are as optimistic as a plover during an eclipse of the sun.

They're hoping to get a reprieve from 48 governors.

You can be a house guest of the Spratts and still wind up with a licked platter.

We detect a seven-veiled threat in the committee blurb that it will vote proxies, alternates and half-delegates. They are scraping the bottom of the barrel and singing a song of hope through the bung-hole.

Partially Penitent PALA, Calif. — Father J. Carillo of the Pala mission in northern San Diego County reported to police that a partially penitent thief stole 50 feet of new garden hose from the mission patio. Father Carillo described the thief as penitent because he attempted to compensate by leaving an old hose in place of the new one.

Spell Of Luck HOUSTON, Tex. — At the Garden Villas school teacher Mae Turnbow put on an old-fashioned spelling bee for third-graders and the girls spelled down the boys as easy as pie. But the boys saw the girls passing something back and forth during the match, investigated, and lodged a complaint. A rabbit foot had been passed to each girl as her turn came.
